3. Terminology and Conventions

3.1 Conventions

The key words “MUST”, “MUST NOT”, “REQUIRED”, “SHALL”, “SHALL NOT”, “SHOULD”, “SHOULD NOT”, “RECOMMENDED”, “MAY”, and “OPTIONAL” in this document are to be interpreted as described in [RFC2119].

All sections and appendixes, except “Scope”, "Release Version Overview" and “Conformance Requirements Notation Details”, are normative, unless they are explicitly indicated to be informative.

The formal notation convention used in sections 7 and 8 to formally express the structure and internal dependencies between specifications in the Enabler Release specification baseline is detailed in [SCRRULES].

3.2 Definitions

Enabler Release	Collection of specifications that combined together form an enabler for a service area, e.g. a download enabler, a browsing enabler, a messaging enabler, a location enabler, etc. The specifications that are forming an enabler should combined fulfil a number of related market requirements.
Minimum Functionality Description	Description of the guaranteed features and functionality that will be enabled by implementing the minimum mandatory part of the Enabler Release.

3.3 Abbreviations

CAB	Converged Address Book
CPM	Converged IP Messaging
ERDEF	Enabler Requirement Definition
ERELD	Enabler Release Definition
OMA	Open Mobile Alliance

4. Release Version Overview

This document defines the components that constitute the Converged Address Book (CAB) Enabler.

The CAB is an evolution of the address book is expected to serve as a launch pad for similarly evolving services dependent upon contact information. In addition to traditional telecommunication features, the CAB will support new services on all-IP based networks featuring many innovative and flexible activities such as those which are emerging to facilitate peer-to-peer and community communications. As the CAB includes features that are not local to user devices, such as network storage and publication and subscription support, the need for interoperable functionality has established the need for the enabler.

The CAB Enabler will include the following:

- An extensible CAB data structure ensuring that it shall be able to incorporate data fields from existing formats (e.g., vCard specifications supported in today's devices)
 - Definition and organization of information related to contacts
 - Integration of other information to contact information like bookmarks
- Features which allow access from different networks and services
- Support for a user to provide his own up-to-date contact information to others, to populate their respective address book
- Provide access and synchronization for various devices registered by the same user across IP networks.
- A framework that allows interworking with available network based address book(s) provided by (for example) messaging and email services. This framework is expected to use standard data formats.
- Provide different views of CAB content depending on the context and/or the device.

4.1 Version 1.0 Functionality

Formal phasing operations will take place after some Architecture work commences to answer some fundamental questions.

Per agreement, it is expected that the initial release of CAB will provide desired functionality for CPM.

6. Conformance Requirements Notation Details

This section is informative

The tables in following chapters use the following notation:

- Item: Entry in this column MUST be a valid `ScrItem` according to [SCRRULES].
- Feature/Application: Entry in this column SHOULD be a short descriptive label to the Item in question.
- Requirement: Expression in the column MUST be a valid `TerminalExpression` according to [SCRRULES] and it MUST accurately reflect the architectural requirement of the Item in question.
